Laugh out loud with John Pinette on Dec. 5

ENJOY AN EVENING OF COMEDY AT JFCS'S 21st ANNUAL BENEFIT, AND SUPPORT JFCS CLIENT SERVICES

One of the signs of an outstanding comedian is the ability to laugh at oneself. John Pinette certainly has that ability. A self-described heavyweight, Pinette performs routines such as "Show Me the Buffet," "I'm Starvin'!" and "Making Lite of Myself" with comedic expertise. Audiences across the globe have praised Pinette's comedic finesse.

JFCS supporters can join in the fun at the 21st Annual Benefit, where the "Tonight Show" regular and actor will be the headliner. It all takes place Saturday, Dec. 5, at the Minneapolis Convention Center.

Pinette has been wowing audiences across America (and many countries) for 15 years, and JFCS is privileged to have this very funny guy featured at the major fundraiser of the year.

SUMMER CAMP EXPERIENCES ENRICH COMMUNITY

It's November, the snow's about to fly, and what do our thoughts turn to? Why, summer, of course.

Summer: the time of swimming, cookouts, and enjoying fresh air – all activities that JFCS endowment funds help support through camp scholarships.

With the difficult economy and rising costs of camps and other Jewish-related activities, more families need assistance to participate.

For more than 10 years, JFCS has helped provide Jewish summer experiences to help families meet these costs.

The number of applications for scholarships for camp and other Jewish summer experiences has increased substantially; JFCS received 153 applications this past summer.

Supported by a variety of JFCS endowment funds, JFCS was able to provide assistance to 100 young people this year.

For information on how you can help send a Jewish child to camp, contact Robin Doroshow at 952-542-4865 or rdoroshow@jfcsmpls.org.

"While we hope the worst of the financial crisis is behind us, we expect to see great need again next summer," said Robin Doroshow, JFCS Development Director.

Applications for scholarships for next summer can be accessed on jfcsmpls.org under the "Financial Assistance" heading, or by calling 952-546-0616. Applications are due by March 26, 2010.

"It is so heartwarming to receive the many cards sent to JFCS thanking the agency for this assistance," said Doroshow.

The notes to the right are excerpts from thank-you cards from children who received scholarships.

Thank you so much for The Generous Gift! It allowed me to go to my favorite camp Herzl! It means so much to me!

Thank you so much for the extremely generous scholarship! I really appreciate it. I had a wonderful time at Herzl Camp this year and it's all because of you. This year was great because I learned so much more about Judaism and I was with my friends. I had a great time and I can't wait to continue learning about my Jewish religion.

Thank you very much for the scholarship to Camp Chi. Without it I would not be able to go. You're the best!

I would like to thank you very much for the scholarship from JFCS that helped me go to Herzl Camp. I was able to go to Herzl for 3 weeks and I had a great time! One of my favorite parts of Camp was celebrating Shabbat with other Jewish kids. I wouldn't have been able to go to camp without your generous scholarship. I truly appreciate it and can't thank you enough!

Family's connection with JFCS creates peace of mind, friendships

Bad things seem to happen in threes. For Eve and Greg's family, three would have been a relief.

But, with the help of JFCS, their family's challenges have led to positive changes and the inspiration for a program that will help others.

Call for help

After Greg lost his job, he called JFCS and spoke with Neal Gillett, Intake and Resource Connection Counselor. After coordinating financial assistance, Gillett referred Greg for career counseling and help re-writing his resume.

With the holidays approaching, Gillett also told the family about the “Hag Sameach” (Happy Holiday) Program. “My children had a wonderful Chanukah last year because of Hag Sameach,” Eve said. “We had not celebrated since the economic turmoil, and this brought a holiday into the home when you worry if you can even have a holiday.”

Support for Sam

Shortly after things seemed settled, their young son, Sam, was diagnosed on the autism spectrum. His preschool refused to accommodate his special needs. Eve called JFCS and was referred to Inclusion Specialist Nanci Fine, who helped Eve find a preschool that would accommodate Sam's special needs and is in his home district.

Nanci Fine

Bobbie Goldfarb

Call 952-546-0616 for help with any need.

Fine learned that, in order for Sam to continue his specialized therapies, the family needed to purchase equipment they could not afford. She helped secure JFCS endowment funds, and soon Sam was practicing his lessons at home.

“Nanci had all her resources available for where I should go and who I should call,” Eve said.

Relief from fears

Then Eve shared with Fine that she had recently been hospitalized for the sudden onset of a life-threatening, chronic illness.

Once home, Eve talked through tears to Fine about the anxiety and trauma she was experiencing. Fine suggested Eve might benefit from relaxation training and individual therapy, “and boom, I was there,” Eve said.

“As a parent you always take care of your kids. Nanci makes you stop and say, ‘What about you?’”

Eve is back at work and says that, while there are still challenges, her life is more full than ever before.

Friendships evolve

For Eve, “one of the biggest mitzvahs” is that Fine brought Bobbie Goldfarb, JFCS Big Brother/Big Sister Program Coordinator, into her children's lives.

Sam's older sister, Abby, is gifted in a variety of ways. “This is a 10-year old who is so smart, and in spite of family challenges, her attitude toward life is like a dance,” Goldfarb says.

Still, siblings of children with special needs often take on adult roles and can get lost in the shuffle of daily life.

Goldfarb sprinted into action and arranged for Abby to have a volunteer Big Sister as well as two BITS (teenage Bigs-In-Training). For Sam, Goldfarb has found two PALS (young teens who pair up to serve together as a Big Brother).

“It just means so much to me to have Big Sisters to talk to, to do things with, to have a friend, someone you can count on to be there for you,” Abby said. “They are just wonderful people. I love to hang out and be with them.”

Abby gives back

In their short time together, Abby and her Bigs have gone to an art museum, the beach and the Metrodome (for the annual Create a Memory event, where they got to play baseball). These opportunities sparked Abby's interest in giving back to others. She made some phone calls to local stores and her school principal, and soon set up a program of her own to help others.

“To have this commitment from her Big Sisters is probably going to be a lifetime connection,” Eve said. “I told Bobbie that if there were 25,000 people in front of me, I could not find better matches than she found. They're 100 percent everything my daughter could dream of – everything a parent could dream of. As a result, she is doing things she is not able to do with us.”

‘Wonderful agency’

To say the family is grateful to JFCS is an understatement. “I want to say how thankful we are to JFCS for helping us pull through these tough times,” Greg said. “It has meant so much.”

“One day your life can change and you realize this wonderful agency, with their many facets, is there to help,” said Eve. “It has touched in many ways every one of my family members. I don't know how we would have ever gotten by without their support.”

Family names were changed to protect their privacy.

THE JFCS 21ST ANNUAL BENEFIT STARRING JOHN PINETTE

INCREDIBLE RAFFLE PRIZES • DELECTABLE DESSERTS • MINI SILENT AUCTION
SATURDAY, DECEMBER 5 • 7:30 PM • MINNEAPOLIS CONVENTION CENTER

Comedian John Pinette has rubbed elbows with entertainment greats ... and people in line at the local Chinese buffet.

Pinette, who was named Stand-Up Comedian of the Year by the American Comedy Awards and has received a Gemini Award nomination for his stand-up at the Montreal Comedy Festival, focuses his stand-up on America's obsession with food.

No matter your appetite, you'll be laughing hysterically when Pinette performs at the JFCS 21st Annual Benefit on Saturday, Dec. 5, at the Minneapolis Convention Center.

Longtime Benefit attendees Ann and Dr. Neil Covin recently saw Pinette perform. Ann says: "He was beyond hilarious! We laughed so hard that we ended up buying his CD and have been enjoying his comedy ever since. Don't miss the opportunity to see him!"

Before Pinette became a funny man on stage, he was a funny man behind a desk, working as an accountant for years before starting his new career in stand-up.

His career switch made a profound change in his life, leading to a tour with Frank Sinatra, regular guest spots on "The Tonight Show" and "The View," and accolades for his stand-up.

Since changing careers, Pinette also has started an acting career in TV and film. He appeared in "Duets" starring Gwyneth Paltrow, "Dear God" starring Greg Kinnear, and "The Punisher" with John Travolta. One of his most memorable roles is the car-jack victim in the final episode of "Seinfeld." In September 2005 Pinette added Broadway to his resume, starring in the musical "Hairspray" as the lovable Edna Turnblad.

When asked to describe his stand-up, Pinette says: "I talk about my life; it is the funniest thing I can think of. For some reason, people enjoy seeing me lose my cherub-like demeanor."

Pinette's first comedy CD, "Show Me the Buffet," was an enormous success, and his follow-up CD/DVD, "I Say 'Nay Nay'" was huge, too. His latest DVD is "I'm Starvin!"

JFCS turns 100!

HELP US REACH 200 YEARS OF SERVICE

Soon JFCS will be celebrating its 100th anniversary. For nearly a century we've been responding to the needs of the Jewish and general communities. Our mission is to help people of all backgrounds reach their full potential.

From helping Eastern European refugees resettle in the early 1900s to helping people today get through difficult economic times, JFCS serves the diverse needs of the community.

Today the agency's wide variety of programs and services help more than 14,000 people annually. And community leaders agree that JFCS is more than worthy of receiving your support and donations.

Irv Weiser, former Board Chair for the Greater Twin Cities United Way, says: "JFCS has been an extraordinary resource not only to the Jewish community but to the community at large. As a former campaign Chair and the immediate past Board Chair of the United Way, I have seen first hand the wonderful work and reputation of JFCS."

Mike Fiterman, a former campaign Chairman for United Way of the Greater Twin Cities who served on the Board for more than 15 years and on the Executive Committee for six years, says: "Since the United Way began in this community, it has noted the exceptional quality of service provided by JFCS. ... JFCS is the flagship organization in demonstrating to the community that Jews care about everyone."

Joshua Fogelson, CEO of the Minneapolis Jewish Federation, says: "JFCS' dedication to providing a wide spectrum of high-quality services has improved the lives of tens of thousands in our local community. ... For the past century, JFCS has provided a place for community members to turn for hope and support, and we look forward to another 100 years of partnership."

You can help JFCS continue helping the Jewish and general communities. For information on contributing to JFCS, please contact Robin Doroshov, Development Director, at 952-542-4865 or rdoroshov@jfcsmpls.org.

After 31 years at JFCS, Larry Greenbaum retires

JVS DIRECTOR'S IMPACT ON AGENCY, COMMUNITY IS CLEAR

When Larry Greenbaum, JVS Division Director, moved to Minneapolis in 1978 to join JFCS, Sony had just introduced the first portable stereo (called the Walkman), "Annie Hall" was the picture of the year, and JVS had two employees.

"Although JVS was small," Larry remembers, "it filled an important role in the community. JVS worked with Jews from the former Soviet Union who had recently immigrated to the United States and were struggling to find employment in spite of language and cultural barriers. JVS also served people who had physical and intellectual barriers to employment." At the time, JVS also ran a small workshop downtown that gave people the chance to learn marketable skills and gain work experience.

"But even then," says Jerry Waldman, former JFCS CEO, and a colleague of Larry's for more than 30 years, "Larry had a vision for a broad-based vocational service that would branch out to serve the greater community. What Larry understood was that we needed the large numbers of people in the general community to get the funding and resources for the innovative employment programs he wanted to develop."

Leaving a legacy

As Larry retires after 31 years at JFCS's JVS division, his impact on JVS is evident.

He reached out to policymakers, including the late State Rep. Gloria Segal, an advocate for mental health concerns; former State Rep. Jim Rhodes; even the late Sen. Paul Wellstone, whom Larry invited to speak at an International JVS conference.

"I think our work strengthened the Jewish Community. ... We became known as an outstanding provider of vocational services."

JVS has become a broad-based vocational service with programs that affect all sectors of the population, including programs for families in need of child care and seniors seeking employment.

JVS also pioneered community-based employment programs that allowed people with disabilities to work at companies with the help of JVS job counselors. And when JVS began working on welfare-to-work programs in the mid-90s, it became a significant partner of Hennepin County.

Commitment to a mission

During his tenure at JVS, Larry relied on a talented staff of individuals. Many, like Larry, are also long-term employees who have made a commitment to the work JVS does and the JVS mission of delivering employment, training, and career development services that positively impact individuals of all backgrounds.

"I think our work strengthened the Jewish Community," Larry explains. "By serving all people who were struggling with employment issues, we became known as an outstanding provider of vocational services. Resources followed our reputation and JVS was able to launch more programs. With state-of-the-art programs up and running, people in the Jewish community were able to access more resources, programs and services than had ever been in place at JVS before."

Judy Halper, JFCS CEO and a colleague of Larry's for 15 years, says she's always felt that Larry's work was defined by important Judaic concepts. "Larry speaks with passion about Maimonides and the greatest form of tzedaka, which is to help a person find employment so they can live a self-sufficient life."

Larry's passion for the JVS movement also led him to taking on leadership roles within the international JVS association. He even combined a recent South American vacation with a visit to IDEL, an innovative worksite for people with developmental disabilities in Argentina.

Larry's interest in vocational issues further propelled him to serve as a surveyor with CARF (Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities), an international organization that utilizes rehabilitation and human services leaders to survey providers ensuring their quality and focus on outcomes.

Planning his encore

Judy Halper says she'll miss the compassion that defined Larry's work life - and his laugh.

Although Larry is retiring from his long, successful JVS career, he is planning an encore. It may include some of his passions: travel; photography; his family, including his wife, Alice, two grown daughters, and his beloved Border Collie, Bernie. In fact, Larry's future may even include the 2009 equivalent of 1978's Walkman - an iPhone.

Through Larry's vision and innovation,

Use these 10 tips to talk about money with your kids

It has been a little more than a year since the beginning of the financial crisis, and although reports say the recession is coming to an end, many continue to struggle.

Barbara Rudnick

When financial hardships affect families, it is especially challenging to know what to say to children. In an effort to protect them from the harsh realities of frozen wages, unemployment, mounting bills and foreclosure, parents often say nothing or over-react.

The following are some tips to help parents address this difficult subject:

1 Remain calm when talking with your children about your financial situation. Don't have the conversation when you are upset, anxious, angry, short-tempered, too hungry, too tired, too distracted or too rushed.

2 Share information that is accurate and honest but also age-appropriate about what's happening and what that means for them. It's not necessary to share all the details, but what you tell them has to be truthful.

For example, for young children you might say, "Daddy doesn't have his old job anymore and he will be home more until he gets a new job. We will need to make some changes but we will be OK."

In the absence of accurate information, children will make things up to "fill in the blanks." This can be worse than what's really happening.

It is important to be open to their reactions. They need time to let the information sink in and ask you questions. Don't be surprised if their initial reaction is all about them: "How will this affect my life? Can I still get the iPod I want? Will I have to give up extra curricular activities?"

3 Have adult conversations when they aren't around. Kids will overhear information they shouldn't. Parents need to be on the same page about what to say and be in agreement about how to handle things. Consistency is important for children to feel safe.

4 Be positive and reassuring in a genuine way. For example, let your children know you believe you will find another job. Tell them you will help them adjust to change that may be difficult and stressful.

5 Count your blessings. This will help you and your family maintain perspective. Say "I love you" and give hugs often.

6 Find ways for kids to be helpful, such as turning off lights, and cutting coupons. Let them see it helps and makes a difference.

For more info, call 952-546-0616, or e-mail AskBarbara at askbarbara@jfcsmpls.org. We're here to help!

Have family meetings and set clear guidelines about spending that are consistent with your values. Make this a topic you can talk about often, if necessary. This will be helpful when you need to say "no" to things they want. They may not like what you say but they will understand why you need to say it.

7 Take care of yourself. Find healthy ways to cope with your emotions and stress. Exercise. Seek out support. Your children are watching you. Demonstrate healthy coping skills.

8 Give your kids permission to talk about this with other adults you and they trust. Your kids may not want to talk with you about how they're feeling because they don't want to upset you.

9 Maintain a strong, healthy, loving family relationship, which helps children through tough times and teaches life-long lessons.

10 Children know when you're having a rough time. Ask for and accept help. JFCS can help with resources, financial assistance, vocational and family counseling, and support.

Companions offer friendship

JFCS's Senior Companions spend time with clients every week or every other week.

Sheila Cohen is a matchmaker for friends through JFCS's Senior Companion program. After all, everyone needs a friend.

Through the Senior Companion Program, which is federally funded under the Senior Corps Act, Cohen oversees an enthusiastic group of more than 10 friends for 78 L'Chaim Senior Services (LCSS) clients.

And she is looking for a new companion who must be 55 or older, meet income guidelines and have a car and a good driving record.

Senior Companions receive a small stipend that is not taxable and doesn't affect entitlements such as food stamps or subsidized housing.

If you enjoy helping people and want to make a difference in their lives, this is a wonderful opportunity.

Companions visit JFCS clients in the LCSS program who are in need of friendship. Most have between five and nine clients whom they see every week or every other week. Clients and companions typically shop together or meet for coffee or lunch.

Yakov Grichener has been a Senior Companion with JFCS for more than 20 years.

"I think that doing mitzvot is to be written in the Book of Life," Grichener said.

And his help is appreciated. "It's a remarkable program," said Cohen. "The clients are provided with companionship. The volunteers feel so positive about the impact they have on clients' lives. It's a win-win for everyone."

Hag Sameach Program touches many this holiday season

JFCS thanks the community for its support of the programs and services we provide to nearly 14,000 people annually.

Your contributions provide kosher Meals on Wheels, counseling, transportation, employment assistance, outreach to those in need of healing, refugee and immigrant services, case management for older adults and for people with mental health needs, and so much more!

Your generosity makes it happen! Thank you.

New endowment funds at JFCS

Greg, Tom and Elliot Glaser-Leder Fund for expenses associated with adoption and child welfare

Richard H. Goldblatt Healing Fund for use where most needed

Richard and Sara Pieser Children's Fund to support programs and services for children

Of all of JFCS's programs and services, one of my favorites is the agency's annual Hag Sameach (Hebrew for "happy holidays") Program. As we approach our 17th year of providing Chanukah gifts and ritual items for Jewish clients and holiday gifts to our non-Jewish clients, Hag Sameach will touch more than 1,000 individuals in need this upcoming winter holiday season.

Robin Doroshov
Development Director

Run almost entirely by volunteers, Hag Sameach has expanded in recent years, providing bags of Passover food to those in need during the spring holiday season.

I have been inspired by the stories of volunteers such as Margie Marks and her long-time commitment and association with the program (in the most recent Directions newsletter).

Like Marks, I enjoy finding good deals on quality items and buying them for Hag Sameach. On a recent errand run, I found a beautiful photo frame for less than $6. Since I'm running errands at least once a week, I find myself making such purchases fairly often. It costs so little and makes me feel so good.

"These (Hag Sameach) volunteers work so hard and provide so much to the community through their efforts."

Every fall, many Hag Sameach volunteers spend as much time at JFCS as I do! These volunteers work so hard and provide so much to the community through their efforts.

My first year at JFCS, I took a trip downstairs to see the Hag Sameach operation firsthand. The scale of the project was enormous in terms of the number of volunteers involved, quantity and variety of gift items, and space occupied. Later, when I helped put together gifts for a family of four, we filled a large bag, not four or eight items, but with several gifts for each family member.

Along with my family, I have delivered Hag Sameach gifts, and the challenge is getting more than just a couple of large bags into the car, since each bag is full of so many gifts for each family. The appreciation shown by recipients is overwhelming, and we have enjoyed being part of this special program.

Endowment donors have set up funds to benefit this program. Longtime volunteer Karen Rubin has such a fund, to provide financial support in addition to putting so much of her own time into JFCS.

In addition, the agency maintains a Hag Sameach Program fund that provides ongoing support to keep it running. Donations to this fund allow JFCS to purchase gifts for clients beyond the donated gift items. This fund was established 15 years ago, and has received almost 3,500 donations totaling nearly $150,000.

There are many ways to participate in Hag Sameach – as a donor of new gift items or money to purchase gift items, as a volunteer sorting gifts, putting together gifts for individuals and families, and wrapping or delivering gifts. I encourage you to join us.

Of course, endowing a fund for this purpose will help ensure that Hag Sameach touches more people in need now and in the future. I would be happy to discuss Hag Sameach and any other JFCS program with you.

I can be reached at 952-542-4865 or rdoroshov@jfcsmpls.org.

JFCS receives McKnight grant

The McKnight Foundation has awarded JFCS a $165,000 grant, to be distributed over two years, for general operating support.

The behind-the-scenes operational areas of JFCS help shape the positive experiences of clients. Assistance from the McKnight Foundation will considerably help JFCS address the operational costs of providing these services.

A first payment check for $95,000 has been received, and a second payment of $70,000 will be provided based upon a successful report in 2010.

“The McKnight Foundation has selected JFCS to help the Foundation meet its objectives of strengthening our community and helping all those who have been impacted by the difficult economic conditions,” JFCS CEO Judy Halper says.

“We are so pleased to have the support and confidence of the McKnight Foundation in receiving this second grant for agency programs and operations.”

Hag Sameach volunteers help families, individuals

Jody Winger and Bill Rosenfeld delivered gifts for the Hag Sameach (Happy Holiday) Program this past Passover. Last year, more than 1,000 individuals were referred to the Hag Sameach Program to receive gifts and ritual items. The program's greatest need is for new, unwrapped gifts for older adults and teens. All donations for Chanukah are needed at JFCS by Nov. 11 (although gifts and monetary donations are accepted year-round). # The Coen Brothers Did It. You Can Too.

Last summer, filmmakers and Minnesota natives Joel and Ethan Coen impacted the Twin Cities Jewish Community by employing locals when they filmed "A Serious Man" in and around the Twin Cities.

If you're serious about doing good in your community and you have the ability to hire workers, JVS can provide qualified, pre-screened job applicants in diverse fields. And there's no cost to you to access this highly skilled pool of job candidates.

Contact Janet Flam, Placement Team Program Manager. She'll give you the star treatment that all employers who work with JVS enjoy. E-mail jflam@jvsmn.org or call 952-417-2112 today.
